1. Before Your First Day

Your manager will send a laptop shipping confirmation 5 business days before your start date. IT provisions your accounts (email, Slack, GitHub) 2 business days prior — see Section 7 for the full list of tools and how access is granted.

2. Week 1: Orientation

Week 1 consists of company-wide orientation (Monday), a benefits walkthrough with HR (Tuesday, see the Employee Handbook for full benefits details), and team-specific onboarding for the remainder of the week led by your onboarding buddy.

3. Week 2–4: Ramp-Up

You'll be assigned a starter project scoped to be completable within 2 weeks. Your manager schedules a 1:1 twice per week during this period, dropping to weekly after Day 30.

4. Day 30 Check-In

A structured check-in with your manager covering early impressions, blockers, and adjustment to team workflows. This is informal and not tied to compensation (see Employee Handbook Section 4 for the formal review cycle).

5. Day 60 Check-In

Focused on ownership: by Day 60 you should be independently owning at least one recurring workstream. Your manager will also confirm your goals for the Day 90 review.

6. Day 90 Review

A formal written review assessing ramp-up against the goals set at Day 60. This review does not affect compensation directly but does confirm successful completion of the probationary period (90 days for all new hires).
